

resurrection

when we met last time, first snow has fallen I finally left you still can remember the way of your smile how can you remember how long I wished you would still be mine didn't smile for a long long time thought we had separated for good we broke up for different reasons is this still you, do not recognize you anymore forever no more side by side, you have to realize to see you now again, breaks my heart in two I don't care anymore thought I was over you, but I was wrong didn't make it easy myself as we stay here together again proof me you have changed I wished we had never parted you know the best why we broke up I would give anything to make you change your mind you have to give everything to make me change my mind

we both have to admit ourselves that we belonged together we would regret the rest of our lives if we'd followed different avenues this night will be our resurrection, forget about the past let the bright moon be our witness let this moment- let this moment last